From the heart of Kenya to the streets of Canada, one woman's journey through faith, identity, and finding her place in a new world. When Mercy Langat left her homeland, she carried with her a degree, a suitcase, and dreams as wide as the ocean she crossed. Canada greeted her with beauty, opportunity, and challenges she could never have imagined.

Through seasons of culture shock, moments of deep loneliness, and the quiet work of rebuilding her life, Mercy discovered unexpected grace: the warmth of new friendships, the strength born from struggle, and the unshakable power of faith.

Navigating a Foreign Land is an honest, moving memoir about resilience, belonging, and the courage it takes to build a life in unfamiliar soil. It's a story for anyone who has ever left home, crossed borders, and learned to bloom where they were planted.
